The New Mexico Film Office Announces “Long Dumb Road” has filmed in New Mexico

SANTA FE — New Mexico Film Office Director Nick Maniatis announced today that the independent feature “Long Dumb Road” produced by Long Dumb Road, LLC filmed in Albuquerque and Belen this month.

The production employed 30 New Mexico crew members, 12 New Mexico principal actors and approximately 60 New Mexico background talent.

The film is directed by Hannah Fidell (“A Teacher,” “6 Years”) and produced by Jacqueline “JJ” Ingram (“Chasing The Blues,” “Operator”) and Jonathan Duffy (“Hellion,” “6 Years”) and Kelly Williams (“Hellion,” “6 Years”).

The independent feature stars Tony Revolori (“Dope,” “Spiderman: Homecoming”) and Jason Mantzoukas (“The House,” “Transparent”).

“The Long Dumb Road” is the story of two very different men at personal crossroads who meet serendipitously and take an unpredictable journey through the American southwest. At once comedic and honest, the film explores how differences in class, race, age and life experience divide us, and how they can ultimately bring us together.
